

Caroline

March 15, 2009

Breaking words like waves we would row our dustup the language quarrels insane letters meaning poetry secret sounds on spoken stage angels promise simple sayings smiles songs use vocabulary faded fonts

and they break like waves undulate and wail across this artificial lake on the shore we can find those pieces laying fractured where we find them
try to piece them together broken by the fact that they existed