

Green mountain sonnet

Winter 2008

Take this as an invitation a digital communication sent across electric ear lobes analog john von neumann liquid-crystal machine-display

Clear your sensory receptor organ vestibule of the ear charge capacity- shock bellows and controlled arranged supplied with air

Out of thin air prepare to hear me compressed air my welcome guest by indirect request
I am glad to hand you my hospitality

These words cannot fail to reach you as I send them out over airways and every line, vibrating antenna, orbiting celestial bodies

You can enter through the attic, you will find me in a high room looking out across the tops of buildings, light will rise up in the morning and empty the content of our minds
